

Freedom of Speech Policy Statement

1. Freedom of speech and expression are core to The Place's values. We believe that an atmosphere of tolerance is essential to enable open discussion and debate of a wide variety of ideas, some of which may be controversial.

This Policy is issued in accordance with section 43 of the Education [No 2] Act 1986 for the following purposes:

- To identify the reasonably practicable steps that must be taken to ensure that freedom of speech within the law is secured for all Place Staff, Students and visitors; and
  - To specify arrangements for the management of meetings and events on The Place's Premises which are not an integral part of the day-to-day artistic, academic or administrative business of The Place.
2. The Board of Governors are required by law to "take such steps as are reasonably practicable to ensure that freedom of speech within the law is secured for members, students and employees of the establishment and for visiting speakers" *
  3. In order to discharge this legal duty, the Board of Governors has established a code of practice establishing procedures for meetings, events and other activities taking place under the authorisation of The Place's and the conduct of staff, students and any other attendees of such meetings.
  4. The obligation to secure freedom of speech is not absolute and certain limitations are imposed by the law.

For example, the law prohibits

- threatening, abusive or insulting words or behaviour in circumstances where it is likely that racial hatred will be stirred up. The laws relating to equality and discrimination also require The Place to have due regard for the need to prevent discrimination, harassment and victimisation as set out in The Place's Equal Opportunities Policy.
- inviting support for a proscribed terrorist organisation. The Counter-Terrorism and Security Act 2015 imposes a duty on The Place to have due regard to the need to prevent people from being drawn into terrorism. This is covered by The Place's The Prevent Policy.

5. This policy covers all members of The Place community including employees, officers, consultants, freelance contractors, casual workers and agencies workers of The Place together with all visiting and honorary members of staff, and students, and any attendees of meetings, events or activities held under The Place's authorisation either on its own premises, at another venue or online.

6. This code of practice does not form part of any employee's contract of employment and we may amend it at any time.

Appendix 2 Risk Assessment

How to calculate your risk assessment

A risk assessment is made by giving careful consideration of what might go wrong if this speaker event goes ahead and then calculating the severity and likelihood of these problems arising.

You need to take account of risks in relation to Health and Safety i.e. is there a possibility of anyone being injured and Security i.e. is there a risk of disorder which could put people or property at risk. Clearly these two concerns overlap.

Use the statements below to help you to rate the risk level of your speaker event. Please note this is not an exhaustive list of risks.

The rating of the risk associated with your speaker or guest will have a bearing on The Place's decision to approve the meeting.

Risk Level	Rating Description
